KENNEDY LAUNCHES MAYORAL RUN

Parishioner Melina Maniatis Kennedy recently launched an exploratory committee for the 2011 Democratic nomination for the office of Mayor of Indianapolis.

Melina is a partner at the Indianapolis law firm Baker & Daniels. She served as Deputy Mayor for Indianapolis Mayor Bart Peterson, counseling him on a variety of issues relating to municipal government and economic development. Melina helped lead efforts to attract the Conrad Hotel to the city, keep Simon Property Group from leaving its downtown headquarters and find a company to fill the void left when United Airlines closed its maintenance hub at the airport. She also helped launch various workforce development, community development and neighborhood development initiatives on behalf of the City. Prior to this she served as Indiana Supreme Court clerk for Justice Frank Sullivan from 1995-97 and as an attorney with Johnson Smith LLP from 1997-2000. At Johnson Smith, she focused primarily on environmental law.

Melina and her husband, former Olympic runner Bob Kennedy, co-own the Running Company LLC, which consists of four running and walking specialty stores in the Central Indiana region.

We wish her every success as she offers her considerable talents to making Indianapolis a better place for all. More information may be found on her campaign website, www.MelinaKennedy.com.
